

SAVE THE DATE: FRI, MAY 30TH ENVISIONING CLARKSBURG'S JAPANESE SCHOOL

The Holland Union Gakuen is one of a few intact pre-World War II Japanese language schools in the state. The property is owned by the Sakata family, who are interested in identifying a steward for reuse of the building and preservation of its history. A charrette is a visioning activity that brings local stakeholders together with technical experts as a next step toward future planning and preservation.

Who should attend: individuals from the Delta and/or Japanese-American communities, preservationists, historians, architects, planners, philanthropic representatives, technical experts, local stakeholders, potential stewards and funders.
